The mission of the journal is to provide a platform for critical discussion on a wide range of educational issues. The journal publishes original research and practice-oriented articles on education, development and policy. The journal "Educational Studies Moscow" strives for a multidisciplinary approach, covering traditional pedagogy as well as the sociology, economics and philosophy of education.

Associate Editors

Yury M. Kuznetsov, National Research Tomsk University, Russian Federation

Conceptually, the journal consists of several parts:

- Theoretical materials and empirical research aimed at developing new approaches to understanding the functioning and development of education in modern society.
- Papers on current projects, practical developments and policy debates in the field of education, written for professionals and the wider public.
- Statistical data and case studies published as "Information for reflection" with minimal accompanying text.
- Information about and analysis of the latest pedagogical projects.
- Reviews of articles published in international journals.

The journal is published by the National Research University of Education, Moscow.

Target audience: leading Russian universities, government bodies responsible for education, councils from federal and regional legislatures institutions engaged in education research, public organizations and foundations with an interest in education.
